WASHINGTON (UPI) — A surprising 0.3 percent drop in consumer prices for March reversed inflation for the first time since 1965.

American buyers were given their biggest break in nearly three decades, the government reported Friday. The Labor Department report showing the rate decline in prices and an inflation rate of only 1 percent since the beginning of the year was hailed as a major accomplishment by the White House.

The decline in the Consumer Price Index for March held special significance for more than 40 million Americans. It triggered a raise of only 7.4 percent in their Social Security, welfare and railway retirement benefits, effective this July, compared to last year's 11.2 percent.

It was the lowest cost-of-living increase in benefits since 1978.

The decline in consumer prices also boosted the spending power of Americans by 0.2 percent in March despite the shrinkage of the workweek caused by recession, the Labor Department said.

The March drop in prices was due to "an economic policy that has cut the rate of spending, our support of a stable monetary policy and our policy of non-intervention in the marketplace," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said at the White House.

"Today's good news is evidence of the dramatic progress made in this area."

A leading analyst of the price index, Georgia State University economist Donald Ratajczak, agreed. "Give the administration credit," he said. "We'll scream at them when the unemployment figures come out."

The jobless rate for March was 9 percent, equal to the post-World War II high. Ratajczak, who correctly forecast the drop in prices, said the recession that began after July's peak in the economy... as softened prices but is not the reason prices fell in March.

"Gasoline is the big item," he said, followed by declines in mortgage interest rates. The next most influential factor, a drop in home prices, could be ascribed to recession, he said.

"It's the special factors which have brought the thing down," he said. "That means the negative is temporary. But the slowing that we are seeing is more fundamental."

Ratajczak forecasts a level of price increases at an annual rate of only 5 percent for the second half of the year.

But Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, cautioned that inflation could still bounce back. He told Congress' Joint Economic Committee Friday, "The war against inflation hasn't been won even though some battles have gone our way."

Weidenbaum said the White House now expects inflation to average 6 percent or less this year compared to the earlier estimate of 7 percent.

The Consumer Price Index for March was 283.1, meaning the price of the government's sample "market basket" of goods and services was $283.10, compared to the $100 for comparable goods and services in 1967.

Most economic forecasters other than Ratajczak expected, at best, a flat zero rate of change or a slight increase in prices for March, not the first decline since August 1965. Government analysts had to reach back to November 1953, to find any steeper rate of decline in the index.

Many categories of price changes showed enormous drops in March — especially large compared to their performance in recent double-digit inflation years like 1979 when the rate was 13.3 percent or 1980 when it was 12.4 percent.

Gasoline prices fell 4 percent for March alone, perhaps the largest drop for a long time to come since prices have firmed around the country.

Falklands settlement looks slim

By United Press International

British warships were reported within 54 miles of the Falkland dependency of South Georgia Friday and Britain urged its citizens in Argentina to evacuate as quickly as possible.

In Washington, hopes for a negotiated settlement were slim as British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym (left, for London to report to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on 10 hours of meetings with Secretary of State Alexander Haig.

Adding to the air of pessimism, a British official in Washington called the document Pym and Haig worked on to resolve the crisis "not satisfactory."

"The gap is very wide," the British official said. "It still leaves a great deal to be desired."

Argentine Foreign Relations Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez was to leave for Washington Saturday for crucial meetings next week with Reagan administration officials and the Organization of American States.

In an interview with the BBC, Costa Mendez said Friday the chances of war over the Falklands crisis were now 50-50.

"We have the wish of peace in our hearts and the powder hot in the cannons," said Argentine Navy Commander Adm. Jorge Araya, a member of three-man military junta. "We won't give in (to British demands)."

Returning from an inspection tour of the 10,000 occupation forces on the Falklands, junta President Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri said "the preparedness and readiness of the troops is outstanding."

A senior defense official in London said advance ships from the British war fleet were "in the vicinity" of South Georgia but had run into a storm with hurricane-force winds, 40-foot waves and below-freezing temperatures.

In Buenos Aires, the Argentine government news agency Telam said two British warships had been spotted only 54 miles north of South Georgia's abandoned whale station of Grylven on the eastern side of the island. Argentine military sources said an attack on South Georgia was "imminent."

A high-ranking Argentine military source said five British ships "are now within helicopter and plane range" of South Georgia, 1,200 miles from the Argentine coast and 800 miles east of the Falklands capital of Port Stanley.

As the 40-ship fleet, buffeted by 85 mph winds and towering swells, steamed to within range of South Georgia it went on "defense station" alert — the Royal Navy's second highest classification of pre-combat readiness.

Tonight's the night to set clock ahead

TWIN FALLS — Daylight-saving time will "spring ahead" officially at 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

Designed to give citizens more hours of daylight for recreational activities after work and farmers more time in the fields, Sunday will be only a 23-hour day. Clocks should be advanced one hour either Saturday night or Sunday morning.

The "lost hour" will be made up in the fall when daylight-saving time ends.

Local boards debate zoning

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — When the Twin Falls County commissioners approved the proposed Crystal Springs Estates subdivision Wednesday, it reversed an 8-1 vote of the county's zoning board.

County commission reversals of decisions reached by the 11-member Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission are nothing new. As Commissioner Marvin Hempleman stated at the close of Wednesday's session, "It's been done before, and it will be done again."

But the frequency of these reversals may spell a philosophical split between the two county boards.

In past 12 months, eight zoning-board decisions have been appealed to the county commissioners, according to county records. Five of those decisions, including Crystal Springs, subsequently were reversed.

Where that split will lead is something county officials aren't talking about as yet. But the zoning board members who were questioned Friday admitted the situation has them frustrated.

Zoning-board decisions come to the county commissioners in two forms. In matters such as requests for rezoning, the zoning board files a recommendation with the three county commissioners, who make the final decision. Otherwise, in such matters as conditional-use permits and preliminary plan requests, the zoning board's decision is binding unless it is appealed to the county commissioners.

Since April 1981, the county commission has reversed the following zoning-board decisions:

- An April 9, 1981, denial of a requested rezoning of a 20-acre parcel, which was north of Filer in an area zoned for agricultural use. The zoning board voted 8-3 against allowing residential development in the area.

- A July 9, 1981, approval of a requested land division for a parcel four miles southeast of Twin Falls in Rock Creek Canyon. County approval was required before a 20-acre parcel could be divided and used for residential development. A neighbor appealed the zoning board's 5-3 vote to the commissioners.

- A Sept. 3, 1981, denial of a Filer man's request for a variance from county building standards. The request dealt with a mobile-home extension that violated county road setback requirements. The zoning board's vote was unanimous.

Man picks wrong line, agents thwart robbery

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A would-be bank robber accidentally lined up at a teller window behind two FBI agents, panicked and opened fire in the crowded lobby Friday.

The two agents and bystander were hit before the gunman was wrestled to the floor.

None of the injuries were serious. Agents arrested Robert J. Anderson, 32, a fugitive wanted in Louisiana for escape, aggravated assault and attempted murder.

Terry Knowles, the FBI's special agent-in-charge in Utah, said he and agent Robert Schamay were depositing evidence money from an unrelated case at First Security State Bank during the noon hour when the suspect got in line behind them.

Knowles said they completed their transaction and stepped back to watch the man "because he was acting suspiciously."

"We knew something was wrong by the way the teller was acting. But, before we could do anything, he just turned around and opened fire at point blank range. We didn't even have time to draw our weapons."

The first shot misfired. The second from the .22-caliber revolver grazed Knowles in the forehead as he ducked. "He fired wildly around the lobby," Knowles said.

Another shot struck Schamay in the shoulder. But the agent, assisted by a bystander, was still able to disarm the suspect and wrestle him to the floor.

Marian Joyce Jarvis, 50, a customer, also was wounded and hospitalized in fair condition. Doctors said Schamay was in good condition.

Ty Schuwalt, another customer, helped the agents subdue Anderson and suffered cuts when he was thrown into a plate glass window.

Authorities in St. Tammany Parish, La., identified Anderson as a suspect who escaped from a Covington jail in April 1978.

He was being held on charges of aggravated assault, resisting arrest, possession of marijuana, aggravated battery and attempted murder.

Roadblock spurs spoof

Key West secedes from union in day of protest

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Key West residents, angry at the federal government for its cumbersome sleuthing efforts, seceded from the union Friday.

For one shining moment they set up their own Camelot — "The Conch Republic."

They quickly ended the spoof, however, saying they wanted to apply for $1 billion in foreign aid.

Key residents are at odds with the federal government over a roadblock which the Border Patrol set up to catch illegal aliens and drug smugglers in the Florida Keys.

Last weekend the roadblock backed up traffic for 19 miles and Key West officials claim it is choking off vital tourist trade. The Border Patrol contends it is serving a necessary purpose, and notes that 25 illegal aliens were intercepted in five days.

Key West Mayor Dennis Wardlow presided over the mock ceremonies proclaiming "The Conch Republic." He declared war on the United States and fired a "verbal shot," and in the same breath surrendered the new republic so it would be eligible for foreign aid.

Wardlow, who elected himself prime minister of the republic, conducted the proceedings in the Old Town Square at high noon. A ragtag crowd of about 750 of the free lifestyle-loving islanders

'We serve notice on the government in Washington to remove the roadblock or get ready to put up a permanent border to a foreign land'
— Mayor Dennis Wardlow attended, dressed in everything from ragged cutoff jeans to business suits.

"We've raised our flag, given our notice and named our new government. We serve notice on the government in Washington to remove the roadblock or get ready to put up a permanent border to a new foreign land," Wardlow declared.

Entrepreneurs hawked T-shirts emblazoned with the Conch Republic flag, conch dollars and "bubba bucks."

The ceremony went off as planned by Wardlow and the Chamber of Commerce except for one thing. The mayor had planned to lower the American flag and replace it with the Conch Republic's flag, a blue nylon banner emblazoned with a bright yellow sun and pink conch shell.

Numerous protests from other city officials and residents greeted that idea so Old Glory was absent from the ceremony when the new flag was raised.

Asked about the declaration of war, City Commissioner Joe Balbonin who was designated minister of defense, said he was "not worried about any troops coming down to get us."

"We'll fight back with hard, Cuban bread," he said, and to sustain the "war effort," he added, "We'll feed our troops on conch chowder, Jewish chowder and key lime pie" which have been designated the official national foods.

Balbonin conceded there was no standing army, but boasted the Conch Republic's navy was stocked with a variety of vessels, including some "very high speed boats familiar with clandestine night operations."

Despite all the spoofing, some people apparently took the action seriously.

Managing Editor Sheila Mainous of the Key West Citizen, which put out an extra, said a number of people had called the newspaper "worried about their food stamps and welfare; they will be able to cash their Social Security checks. Others wanted to know if the conch dollars could be used to buy things."

Today's briefing

Auld will fix fire violations

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James Auld, R-Boise, has agreed to correct fire code violations at five Boise apartment buildings he owns.

Assistant Boise City Attorney W.H. Fawcett said Auld agreed to comply during a half-hour meeting at Boise City Hall with Fawcett and Boise Fire Marshal Dean Goodner, who originally cited Auld last summer.

Fawcett said the city had given Auld 90 days to correct the violations or else he would be prosecuted.

Among the violations in Auld's buildings were failure to install smoke detectors, failure to install automatic doorclosers on apartment doors and failure to install manual fire alarms.

Bush arrives in Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Vice President George Bush arrived in Japan Friday to "continue the dialogue" on trade and defense but thousands of angry Japanese farmers urged the government to say "no" to America.

"I have come to Tokyo to consult with Japanese leaders on a variety of issues," Bush said on arrival at the start of a five-nation tour of Asia and the Pacific.

"Whether we have complete harmony on specifics, however, is less significant than the realization that ours is a truly active dialogue between two very close partners," Bush said. "I am here to continue that dialogue in a spirit of good faith and cooperation befitting such a relationship."

Carter to become more active

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Jimmy Carter, feeling he is "being vindicated by events," plans to become more active in Democratic affairs.

He has agreed to address two Washington area gatherings, a party spokesman said Friday.

Carter will speak at the Montgomery County, Md., spring ball May 1 and return for another political event in June, according to Democratic National Committee spokesman Bob Neumann.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, will be guests at a party May 1 hosted by former White House social secretary Gretchen Posson, to which all former Carter aides have been invited.

Networks want Foster tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television networks sought permission Friday to broadcast actress Jodie Foster's videotaped testimony following its use in John W. Hinckley Jr.'s trial, but her lawyers charged that might put him in danger.

Four networks asked U.S. District Court Judge Barrington Parker to let them copy a videotaped deposition, which was taken from Miss Foster during a closed hearing last month.

The request was made by ABC, CBS, NBC and Cable News Network in legal papers filed in the case of Hinckley, who is accused of shooting President Reagan last year.

But Miss Foster's lawyers, in papers filed this week and unsealed Friday, opposed releasing the material.

Five shot to death in Florida

PERRY, Fla. (UPI) — Two adults and three young children were found shot to death Friday in north Florida town and police said it apparently was a murder-suicide.

Authorities identified the dead as Lois Sadler, 55, an unemployed pulpwood truck driver with a heart condition; Marsha E. Cash, 35; Anthony Tonaline, 8; Joseph Tonaline, 6; and Derek Sims, aged 5 or 6, a visitor in the home.

The Tonaline children were believed to belong to Ms. Cash, said Mickey Watson, a Florida Department of Law Enforcement agent. Watson said Ms. Cash and Sadler were living together.

Dust shouldn't affect weather

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientists Friday said barring a bizarre development, volcanic debris in a giant cloud drifting 13 miles above the earth would not significantly alter world weather patterns.

Dr. Lester M. Mather, NOAA spokesman, said the only noticeable environmental change would be the dust causing a colorful red sunrise and sunset.

Teens in court for bank prank

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — Two teenagers who were accused by police and then released after they tried to hold up a bank as a prank must have a hearing before a juvenile court judge, an assistant district attorney said Friday.

The boys, aged 13 and 14, say they told a bank teller they were armed with a grenade and demanded money on a dare, but Assistant Delaware County District Attorney William Ryan said they should have known better and that a petition would be lodged with juvenile court.

"It is our feeling we cannot laugh this off," Ryan said. "They are 13 and 14 and they should have known better."

The youths have not been officially charged with anything, but a judge will decide what happens to them.

Upper Darby police said they would not be charged because they had intended to hold up the bank and they released the boys after giving them stern warnings.

Hayakawa teaches lesson on language in the U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., held colleagues and a congressional hearing audience in rapt attention Friday — giving them a glimpse of why he gained world fame as a semanticist.

Hayakawa, testifying about bilingual education, said he learned English the way the administration is proposing teaching the language to youngsters who do not usually speak it.

"I must have learned English by total immersion," he said.

My first language must have been Japanese, since a child learns his language from his mother and my mother never learned English. As soon as I went out on the street and played, I learned English. I must have had that experience at age 3.

The Senate Labor and Human Resources' education subcommittee is considering Hayakawa's proposed legislation to declare English the official U.S. language and to make the use of bilingual education to teach English not merely help a youngster maintain a second culture and ethnic heritage.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., asked whether English is becoming the universal language.

Hayakawa recalled that a Danish scholar, once said that if English-speaking people "would make rational their spelling system" the scholar would root for making English the universal second language.

Hayakawa told of the Chicago Tribune's attempt years ago to spell "freight rate" as "frate rate," which he said made "perfect sense." He said the paper wanted to spell "tariff" and "sheriff" with one "r" and one "l."

President Theodore Roosevelt was a great proponent of reformed spelling. When he was finally defeated, a cruel cartoon showed him walking into the sunset and above were great letters, "TRIBUTE."

The crowd laughed, and the one-time president of San Francisco State College, who is retiring after one term in the Senate, warmed to his lecture.

Saying English is indeed becoming the universal second language, he told of going to Japan and asking Japanese their words for parts of a car. They replied, "fender," "bumper," "wiper," "window."

"But you have a Japanese word for window," Hayakawa pointed out. "When it's in a car, they replied, it's 'window.'"

Pell noted a trend to return to speaking Hindi rather than English in India, to Gaelic in Ireland, to Tagalog in the Philippines and to Swahili in Africa.

"The problem is that the rise of national self-consciousness in any country, for example, the Welsh, is usually accompanied by a revival of the ancient Welsh language, an absolute dialect," Hayakawa replied.

"This happens all over the world at one time or another, but once the country begins to join a universal system you have a more powerful wedge."

"If you're an international airline you're not going to approach an airport in New York, Tokyo or Berlin speaking only Welsh. You've got to join the network of international languages."

That imperative of technology and world trade hits us all. "Therefore, Welsh, Gaelic and American Indian tribal languages, however beautiful to those who speak them, have limited usefulness."

Mitchell blasts Leroy, insanity law

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General David Leroy misled Idahoans about the content and cost of a bill he successfully pushed through the Legislature which is intended to eliminate the insanity defense in criminal cases, a campaign opponent said Friday.

Democratic Sen. Mike Mitchell — who is running against Leroy for lieutenant governor — said the bill approved during the 1982 session will not really eliminate insanity pleas.

The Lewiston lawmaker said defendants still will be able to raise the issue at sentencing and still will be able to gain commitment to treatment centers rather than the state prison.

Mitchell also said claims from supporters that the law will streamline the criminal justice system and save taxpayer dollars are not true.

"The way it has been done is that defense attorneys raise the competence issue up front. Now they will have to wait until sentencing. But psychiatrists and other mental health professionals still will have to be involved, and the prosecutor still will have to do all the background work, or more than he did under the old system," Mitchell said.

"I think the attorney general misled the people of this state on both the content and cost of that insanity bill," Mitchell said during taping of the KTVB-TV program "Viewpoint."

"It's going to cost the taxpayer more money," he said.

Reversal

A Jan. 14 denial of a requested land division for a five-acre parcel on the Snake River canyon rim, five miles north of Filer. The division was intended to allow construction of an additional home on a one-acre lot.

The zoning board's vote was unanimous.

The zoning board's April 8 denial of a requested preliminary plat for the 88-unit Crystal Springs development, to be located in the Crystal Springs area, approximately five miles north of Filer. The zoning board's decision was based largely on objections to the proposed residential development voiced by the Filer school board, which said the project might generate more students for the overcrowded school system, and by the Idaho Fish and Game Department, which said the project would prove detrimental to the wildlife in the area.

The county commissioners' most recent decision apparently has intensified zoning board members' frustrations.

Calling the Crystal Springs decision "the final blow," zoning board member Annette Jenkins voiced a frustration echoed by several of her colleagues.

"We realize we're only an advisory board, but I think a majority of the people on the board are very responsible, concerned people," she said. "And most of us take the time — and it actually costs money — to go out and look at these projects on our own. We labor over these decisions, and then to have the commission have so little regard for our opinion . . ."

Some zoning board members also are unhappy with the way the county has administered its 20-acre limitation, which restricts the division of agricultural lands below 20-acre parcels. This provision in the county's comprehensive land-use plan was designed to protect residential development in those areas.

"We have more rural people on the board now, and most of them are aware of the many hours that went into the comprehensive plan, and most of us have watched that plan be watered down. Now, it seems every time we turn around, they're finding a new way to split that 20 acres down," Jenkins said.

The county commissioners also have ignored a provision in the comprehensive plan calling for the cooperation of inter-governmental agencies in devising zoning policy, says zoning board member Ralph Jones of Filer.

"Here we had a governmental entity — in the Filer school board — ask us to reject it, and we had a government agency — in the Idaho Fish and Game Department — ask us to reject it."

"Anyone who is familiar with the Filer school District knows the elementary school is very overcrowded right now. In my 30 months on the board, the Fish and Game has never, ever come to us and asked us to turn down a project," Jones said. "The county commissioners didn't need any of the advice of the other governmental entities in the county."

The pattern of reversals may also deter individuals from serving on the volunteer zoning board, says 15-year member Jim Brennan of Filer.

"Why should we go in there and waste our time making decisions when they want to override us. We're not getting a dime out of it, and it's costing us time and money."

Asked how the apparent split between the two boards might be resolved, Brennan suggested: "It seems to me that they ought to get a different board."

Asked if he meant the zoning board or the Board of County Commissioners, Brennan replied, "Well, either one. It doesn't make much difference. They're not in agreement now."

Panel refuses special study on anti-drunk driving bill

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Legislative Council refused Friday to order a special study on anti-drunk driving legislation.

The council said there is no need to tackle the House-Senate impasse on the issue until next year's regular session.

The council also approved a resolution urging the state Education Board to preserve the individual autonomy of Idaho's three public television stations and appointed members to legislative interim committees.

Senate President Pro Tem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, said the proposal to create an interim committee to produce a bill toughening penalties for driving while intoxicated was defeated because a majority of the council thought a full review prior to the 1983 session would not be necessary.

The vote killing the proposal by Sen. Kermit Kiebert, D-Hope, was 6-5. Kiebert said there was enough disagreement about how the issue should be approached to warrant an interim study.

"The legislation was developed last session, and two bills were drafted, and we just didn't have time to negotiate the differences between the bills," Budge argued in opposition to setting up the committee.

"We feel the study wouldn't be fruitful," he said after the meeting.

The House and Senate this year each passed a bill to increase sanctions against drunken driving, but the Senate bill was amended to death by the House and the lower chamber's version was buried in a Senate committee.

The House proposal called for a mandatory minimum two-day jail sentence for a drunken driving conviction and the Senate measure would have made it easier for authorities to gain convictions.

On a 74 ballot, the council adopted a resolution to the Education Board expanding on the 1982 Legislature's expression of legislative intent on the operation of the state-funded public broadcasting network in fiscal year 1983.

The resolution called on the board to preserve management autonomy at the Boise, Moscow and Pocatello stations under the full Legislature's concept of establishing a central management system to supervise the entire network.

The measure also urged the board to spread appropriations equally among the three stations.

Raft River plant at full power

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Department of Energy's Raft River geothermal plant near Malta achieved full power operation last weekend, the major milestone in the project's history.

The plant, which produces electricity from moderate-temperature geothermal water, was operated April 15 through April 19 between 4 and 4.8 megawatts and performed to design predictions, according to officials of EG&G Idaho, the contractor who operates the plant.

The plant uses geothermal water of less than 300 degrees to heat isobutane, which is the driving fluid for the turbine-generator. The electricity is supplied to the Raft River Rural Electric Cooperative.

Personnel at the plant will continue to collect and analyze data and to make system adjustments to maximize performance. The plant is expected to be operated at various test conditions through May.

Department officials have announced that the government is looking for a buyer for the plant because Congress failed to fund the project for fiscal 1983.

The plant, which was built to explore the feasibility of using moderate-temperature geothermal water to generate electricity, first produced power last November.

Explosion burns Riggins mill

RIGGINS (UPI) — An explosion Friday afternoon sparked a fire that quickly engulfed and destroyed the Salmon River Lumber Co. mill and severely burned two workers, authorities said.

Riggins police said the blast occurred about 4:15 inside the mill, sparking a raging fire that consumed the mill and its contents before firefighters could act.

The blaze, which leveled much of the mill, was under control by early evening, officials said.

The two male victims, whose names were not released, were taken by ambulance to McCall Memorial Hospital in McCall, where they were treated and sent on to St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. A nursing supervisor said the men were in critical condition.

There apparently were no other injuries in the fire, authorities said.

"The miracle was, it happened between shifts," said Jennette Tate, a police spokeswoman.

departments responded to the blaze along with U.S. Forest Service fire crews, Ms. Tate said. Firefighters were battling hot spots in the smoldering ruins of the mill by evening, she said.

Work resumed at the mill April 15 after a shutdown of several months due to the Northwest timber industry slump, officials said.

The cause of the fire was not determined, but fire officials speculated a boiler in the mill exploded.

U.S. made no specific offer to Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig has made no specific offer to Cuba to cut its ties with Moscow, a State Department spokesman said Friday.

He called such a suggestion outside "the realm of possibility."

Spokesman Alan Romberg responded to a report that Haig has privately offered Fidel Castro as "an anguishing" over such a proposal.

"If one were to consider is there a specific offer on the table of some sort that Castro is now anguishing about, that is not in accord with what we have said in the past about this issue," Romberg said.

"What we have said, consistently, is that if Cuba were to change its policies in certain areas — if it revolves around the point of interfering in other countries' affairs — that we would be willing to reconsider our relationship with Cuba."

Haig was reported to have described the offer in remarks to a group of Massachusetts business leaders meeting Wednesday in the office of Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass.

Haig was said to speak of an unspecified U.S. offer, one that might make Castro consider breaking ties with the Soviets in exchange for returning to the Western camp.

"I don't know of anybody who has suggested that it is within the realistic realm of possibility that anybody should suggest that Cuba cut its ties" to Moscow, Romberg said.

He, like an aide to Conte, declined to relate Haig's remarks, because they were "off the record." But he said the substance of the American position toward Havana has not changed — there can be no improvement in relations until Castro stops interfering in its neighbor's affairs.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Haig was expressing only his "viewpoint" to the group of business executives Wednesday.

He said "once certain conditions are met," relations with Cuba could improve.

"We would welcome Cuba's return to the Western Hemisphere and an end to its interference in the internal affairs of others once that has occurred," Speakes said.

Cuba's economy is stagnant and depends on a daily subsidy from the Soviet Union estimated at $3 million a day. The United States has imposed a trade embargo on Cuba for more than two decades, because of its political policies.

"The issue is simply one of the very difficult straits in which Cuba has found itself in following its current policies," Romberg said.

"One assumes that the government of Cuba will try to improve the situation within Cuba and that if it isn't working the way they're doing it, maybe they should do something else."

Hospital supplier will appeal

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — The nation's largest hospital supplier announced Friday it would appeal a federal judge's ruling that the company violated anti-trust laws with its pricing plans for 29 hospitals.

U.S. District Judge Douglas W. Hillman, in a 198-page opinion released Thursday in Grand Rapids, Mich., said the pricing policy used by American Hospital Supply Corp. of Evanston, Ill., constituted a conspiracy to monopolize the hospital supply market.

Hillman awarded $430,000 in damages to the four smaller hospital supply firms that filed the anti-trust suit in October 1979.

"After viewing the lengthy opinion, I believe the judge's findings of fact are inaccurate and the application of law incorrect," said J. Richard Hull, general counsel for the supply company. "The decision also prevents the seven hospitals involved from achieving economies they seek as part of responsible efforts to contain costs."

The lawsuit was filed against American Hospital Supply after the company signed a contract with Voluntary Hospitals of America, a management firm that served 29 non-profit hospitals across the nation.

The contract stated the hospitals, by purchasing a certain amount of supplies, would earn rebates that grew larger as the size of their orders increased.

The smaller suppliers said several of the VHA-managed hospitals stopped soliciting competitive bids for large purchases and claimed American Hospital Supply was attempting to become the exclusive supplier for those hospitals.

Israel levels Yamit

By United Press International

Israeli troops flushed out the last remaining squatters and blew up the model town of Yamit Friday as negotiators huddled for six hours to reach agreement on borders of the Sinai 48 hours before it reverts to Egypt.

"Yes, it was blown up," said an army spokesman in Tel Aviv, confirming that explosive charges crumbled the few remaining structures in the northeastern Sinai town of Yamit, where 5,000 settlers once lived.

Israeli, Egyptian and American negotiators expressed confidence that agreement resolving an Egyptian-Israeli border dispute will be reached by Sunday, the day Israel completes withdrawal from the occupied Sinai.

"We have made excellent progress in our talks today," said U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Walter Stuessel, who has been shuttling between Israel and Egypt for nine days to reconcile last-minute differences.

"We hope to have an agreement finished by noon on Sunday. Stuessel told reporters following a six-hour meeting with Israeli Foreign Ministry Director Gen. David Kimche and Egyptian State Minister for Foreign Affairs Boutros Ghali, both of whom made similar statements to reporters.

The border dispute involves 15 out of nearly 100 Sinai border demarcation points, most of them considered of minor importance.

A major snag in the negotiations is an Israeli tourist hotel on a 70-yard strip along the Gulf of Aqaba at Taba, just south of the Israeli port of Eilat. Both Israel and Egypt claim the land on which the hotel is built.

Israel is scheduled to hand over the eastern third of Sinai to Egypt Sunday, when flag-raising ceremonies will be held at Rafah in the north and Sharm El-Sheikh in the south.

In Yamit, a model town built up from the desert nine years ago, a loudspeaker blared the Israeli national anthem for the last time and soldiers using a giant hoist ladder plucked 11 students from atop the 82-foot war monument to a tank battle in the 1967 Mideast war, when Israel captured the Sinai from Egypt.

Lebanon fighting kills 14; Israeli jets continue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli jets streaked over Beirut for the sixth straight day Friday, while down below 14 people were killed in fighting between rival militias in north Lebanon.

With Israeli overflights reaching the frequency preceding Wednesday's bombardment south of Beirut, guerrilla leaders feared a full-scale Israeli invasion held back from retaliation and prepared for new aerial attacks.

"I'm surprised it's taken them more than 24 hours to come back," said one official of the Palestine Liberation Organization. "They want to keep pushing, pushing, pushing," said a PLO official. "They will keep on striking. It's peace in the Sinai in exchange for war in Lebanon, to dislodge the focus from the occupied territories."

Police said 14 people were killed and eight wounded in clashes between pro-Syrian and pro-Iraqi guerrilla groups in the port city of Tripoli, 32 miles north of Beirut.

The victims included a mother, her eight children and week-old infant. They were burned to death after a falling artillery shell turned a nearby paint factory into a furnace. Police appealed to the factions to hold fire until some 65 other civilians trapped in homes around the blaze could escape.

The fighting ended three weeks of peace between the guerrilla groups in Tripoli. It began late Thursday with the assassinations of a leader of the Iraqi Baath party and his bodyguard and escalated Friday with the revenge killing of a Lebanese Communist Party official.

The clashes coincided with the third straight day of Israeli overflights over Beirut and southern Lebanon.

A U.N. spokesman said the Israelis made 49 overflights Thursday and 28 Friday. Wednesday's bombardment, which left more than 20 dead and 50 wounded, was preceded by three days of high overflights and a day at much lower levels.

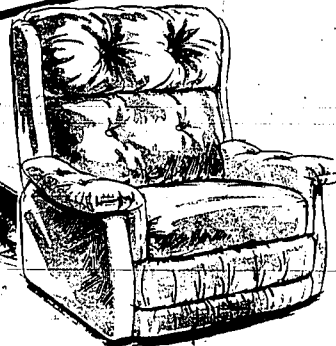

PLO leaders met for the third straight day to discuss the Israeli push but maintained an official silence unbroken since Wednesday when a short, low-key statement said only that the Palestinians would retaliate at the time and place of their choosing.

Arab observers said they believed a new Israeli bombardment appeared inevitable, both to boost Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's popularity at home following the withdrawal from Sinai Sunday and to exploit Washington's preoccupation with the Falkland crisis.

What's what

In hot humid basements in New York City's Chinatown are at least 10 bean sprout farms which turn out about 50,000 pounds of sprouts each of seven days a week. Chinese workers, nearly naked in pants, plastic aprons and rubber boots, start their day at 3:30 in the morning, tending and trimming, watering and washing. Sprouts in great laundry hampers are sold at 20 cents a pound to restaurants and markets.

An estimated $500 million worth of hens' eggs every year never make it to the dining table. They get cracked somewhere between the chicken and your kitchen door.

WHAT TO WEAR

Q. How can I know what to wear to go on a job interview?

A. Dress your daytime best. If what you consider best doesn't suit the boss, you wouldn't fit in there anyway. How's that for off-the-cuff advice from somebody who doesn't know anything about it?

Q. Why do the call letters of all radio stations start with the letters "K" or "W"?

A. In 1927, an international agreement divided the alphabet among nations so the nationality of a broadcasting station could be recognized by the first letter or two of the assigned call signs. The United States was given "K," "W" and "N" plus parts of the "A" series. The Coast Guard uses "N." The Army and Air Force use "A." Early stations, such as KDA in Pittsburgh, Pa., were allowed to keep their original call letters.

VIOLENT DEATHS

Since the Revolutionary War in 1776, 1.2 million Americans have died in combat. Since 1900, more than 2 million Americans have died in car wrecks.

6-year-old stripped of title

DEXTER, Mo. (UPI)—The outraged parents of a 6-year-old beauty queen who was declared 2 months too old for the competition and stripped of her title said Friday they were consulting an attorney.

"They knew she was 6 years old, so why did they let her go through with it?" said Brenda Elliott, mother of Heather, who has been dethroned as "Little Miss Dexter."

Mrs. Elliott said her husband, Larry, talked with an attorney late Thursday to discuss possible legal action.

Heather, a kindergartner at Southwest Elementary School, was crowned Monday night at a pageant sponsored by the Stoddard County Soroptimists Club. Her picture—showing her with a tiny tiara, a bouquet, a shiny trophy and a beaming "Little Miss Dexter" beside her—appeared on the front page of the town's newspaper.

The problem started after contest officials realized sometime after the event that Heather was two months past her sixth birthday. Contest rules state an entrant must not be 6 on the day of the judging, and other parents complained their 6-year-old daughters had been disqualified.

Heather was stripped of the title and it was awarded to her first attendant, Sara Elizabeth Simmons. Heather was allowed to keep the trophy, tiara and bouquet.

But Mrs. Elliott, who broke into tears when relating the events of the past week, said it has been a traumatic experience for her daughter.

"She said, 'Please don't make me go to school,'" Mrs. Elliott said. "All her teachers made a big thing of it. This whole thing's been very, very upsetting."

Police enjoy cheers for recapturing killer

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—The best thing about recapturing desperado Raymond Lee Stewart was hearing the cheers of onlookers as the bloodied convicted murderer was taken back to jail, a policeman said Friday.

Stewart, sentenced to death for two murders and charged with four others, bolted to brief freedom through police gunfire Thursday from the county courthouse.

Wounded in the shoulder, he was found hiding in an oil drum in a basement area near the city's downtown shopping mall an hour later.

"The really nice thing about it," said detective Gary Relfett, who participated in the capture, "is that when we took Ray out of the basement area and were walking down State Street, it was something else to hear these people applauding and shouting, 'Hooray for the police!'"

"You don't hear that too often."

Many of those same people had covered in doorways on the mall during Stewart's hour-long taste of freedom.

Many also had lived in fear during the two weeks in 1981 when six people were killed in Rockford and nearby Beloit, Wis. Stewart was convicted and sentenced to death for two of the murders and is charged in the other four.

Gun sales shot up during that period.

The relatives of some of the victims said they experienced strong emotional reactions to Stewart's escape.

Rose Marie Boeck, whose son, Richard, 21, was killed in Beloit, said, "The only satisfaction I felt was when that bullet went through him."

Laura Clark, sister of victim Kevin Kaiser, 18, said, "Now he knows how it feels" to be shot.

Pac Man record set

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—Postal worker Will Kornfeldt racked up 2.9 million points on a Pac Man machine to claim a new world record for the popular video game.

Kornfeldt already is recognized by the Guinness Book of World Records as the champion of the video game with 2.7 million points.

Kornfeldt slipped his quarter into the games at the Players and Spectators restaurant Thursday afternoon and stopped gobbling ghosts more than six hours later.

Budget discussion 'hangs by thread'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Budget negotiators agreed Friday to keep trying for a compromise that may be little more than suggested ranges for tax increases and spending cuts to keep the deficit below $100 billion.

Congressional leaders and White House aides emerged from four hours of talks with an agreement only to meet again late Sunday.

The talks began nearly a month ago with hopes of drafting a specific 1983 budget cutting plan, which with the approval of President Reagan and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill could breeze through Congress.

But in the ensuing weeks the participants lowered their sights, and they now hope only to fashion compromise goals for spending cuts and tax increases that might calm jittery financial markets.

Such an agreement might prove essentially meaningless in providing direction to tax and budget-writing committees of Congress.

Without action this year, the Office of Management and Budget concedes the 1983 deficit could reach nearly $180 billion.

"The negotiations continue to hang by a thread, but as long as nobody calls the threat and we keep meeting, I'll remain optimistic," said Rep. Barber Conable of New York, the senior Republican on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee.

One participant, Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., said his feeling about a compromise has not changed over the month. "It's still possible."

Noting that "the country is in very serious condition," Bolling said the negotiators' task of reaching a budget agreement "is an enormously important effort" to reassure the nation.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We are encouraged the talks are continuing."

'82 deficit $72 billion so far, but some question figures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal deficit halfway through the 1982 fiscal year climbed to $71.9 billion, the government said Friday, amid scattered speculation the administration is using the wrong projections.

The deficit for March alone was $18.25 billion, the Treasury Department said.

The cumulative total since the beginning of the government's fiscal year last October was $6.7 billion ahead of the 1981 deficit at the same period, the department said.

The administration estimates the total deficit this year at $100.5 billion and that the 1983 deficit will be even worse — $101.9 billion under the original Reagan budget plan. That figure is expected to reach $175 billion to $180 billion if no action is taken to reduce spending or increase revenues.

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, wrote an open letter to President Reagan earlier this month saying the deficit this year, based on figures so far, actually will reach only $70 to $75 billion.

Social Security benefits to rise 7.4 percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's 36 million Social Security recipients will get a 7.4 percent cost-of-living hike beginning July.

The raise boosts the average $379 monthly check to $406, unless Congress votes to trim the annual increase.

The yearly automatic cost-of-living adjustment, reflecting inflation in the first three months of the year, is the lowest since 1978, when it was 6.5 percent. The amount was fixed by the Consumer Price Index for March, released Friday.

March's unusual drop in prices — 0.1 percent under the special index used to compute Social Security benefits — held down the size of the annual increase, a hefty 11.2 percent last year. If prices had risen in March, the hike could have been 7.6 percent.

The cost-of-living adjustment also is set to begin in July for the 4.1 million recipients of Supplemental Security Income.

The increase, the 13th in the past 14 years, will cost the cash-short Social Security trust funds $11.3 billion over the next year, or $1.5 billion for every percentage point increase, according to Social Security Administration figures. Last year's 11.2 percent rise cost $15.4 billion.

White House and congressional budget negotiators, searching for savings, are discussing several admittedly politically risky proposals to trim or postpone the increase.

Social Security officials set a deadline next Wednesday for changing the adjustment, and May 9 for eliminating this year's hike.

But Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Aging Committee, released his panel's study saying three separate cost-cutting proposals being considered would slash benefits to between 77 percent and 65 percent of current value by 1990.

The increases, according to official Social Security figures, include:

• The average benefit for a retired worker, now $378.78, would rise by $27, to $406 a month.

• The maximum monthly benefit for a 65-year-old worker retiring this year will rise $50, from $679 to $729.

• For a 65-year-old couple retiring this year, the maximum will rise from the current $1,018 to at least $1,093, a $75 hike.

• For an aged widow, the average $350 monthly check will rise $25, to $375.

• For an already retired couple, in which both the husband and wife get benefits, the average $648 check will rise $47, to $695.

• A mother and two children, now getting an average $860, will get a $63 increase, bringing the monthly check to $923.

• The average disabled worker, with a wife and child, now receives $793 a month and will get a $58 bonus, to $851.

Ground Zero organizers pleased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The organizers of Ground Zero Week, a cram course on nuclear war, proclaimed their nationwide effort an "undeniable success" Friday.

They plan more educational activities as congressional elections near.

Roger Molander — the head of Ground Zero who for seven years was a nuclear policy expert in the National Security Councils of Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter — said an estimated 1 million people participated in this week's events.

"Ground Zero Week is an undeniable success, having produced the largest simultaneous learning experience about the threat of nuclear war that Americans have ever experienced," he told a news conference.

Ground Zero is the exact point of an atomic explosion. Ground Zero Week, which officially ends Sunday, has focused on the danger and horror of nuclear war.

Molander said more than 6,000 organizers help bring the grim news about nuclear war to over 600 cities and towns around the country.

"Millions of Americans have decided that the threat of nuclear war is too important a problem to be left to the exclusive management of politicians and national security experts," he said.

Noting that an effort such as Ground Zero Week never had been tried before in the United States, Molander said his group is "very satisfied" with the results so far.

"We didn't set out to have demonstrations," he said, stressing that the week's emphasis was on educating the public about the issues at stake.

Nevada girl dies of swine flu-like infection

ATLANTA (UPI) — A 4-year-old Nevada girl died two months ago from a swine flu-like infection, but federal health officials said Friday it was an isolated incident and there was no danger of an epidemic.

More than 40 million Americans were inoculated against swine flu six years ago before the $135-million federal program was halted because of a statistical association between the vaccinations and Guillain-Barre syndrome, a type of paralysis.

The unidentified Nevada girl died in a Los Angeles hospital Feb. 14.

"It seems to have been an isolated case and not an outbreak," said Dr. Karl Kappus of the national Centers for Disease Control's influenza surveillance unit. "There have been no other cases since then."

The virus that killed the child was antigenically similar to the A-New Jersey flu strain of 1976 that killed a soldier at Fort Dix, N.J., and infected several hundred other recruits, the CDC said.

The virus also was apparently the same strain believed by public health authorities to have caused the 1918 flu epidemic that killed 500,000 Americans.

"This continues a pattern of occasional human infections with swine influenza viruses currently circulating in pigs," the federal health officials said.

But they said "swine influenza-like viruses that currently circulate in pigs have not demonstrated the propensity to cause human epidemics."

The last remains of Cactus Pete's Desert Lodge were removed by a front-end loader Friday morning in Jackpot

Jackpot motel now just bits and pieces

100-room motel will take its place

JACKPOT — Destruction of a motel that has been in Jackpot for most of the community's 27-year existence got under way Friday to make way for a new 100-unit motel.

Promptly at 10 a.m., a front-end loader thrust its weight against the 15-unit Desert Lodge, owned by Cactus Pete's casinos. Construction of a 100-unit motel, with deluxe suites and conference rooms is expected to begin May 1.

Occupancy is expected by January, according to Carl Hayden, the publicist for Cactus Pete's.

The new building was on adjacent to Cactus Pete's and will result in a total of 500 motel rooms in Jackpot, where business apparently is booming.

The border town's gambling casinos generated about 25 percent more revenue last year than they did in 1980, according to state statistics. Nevada as a whole experienced a 6 percent increase in taxable gaming revenue.

Hayden says that after completing the 100-unit structure, Cactus Pete's intends to build yet another motel. The plans for it are incomplete.

In limbo

Despite state lawsuit, beaver ranches still in operation

By RONZELLAR
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The saga of three financially ailing Magic Valley beaver ranches continues. Officials of Rupert Beaver Ranches, a California-based operation, said on March 4 that they would remove 200 beavers from private land leased near the Twin Falls hydroelectric plant.

Area residents had complained the animals were neglected and dying. And the site's owners wanted to use the land and spring water piped through the beaver cages to construct a hydroelectric plant of their own.

In the past six weeks, the state Department of Health and Welfare has filed suit in Fifth District Court in Rupert to force the beaver ranches to close or to comply with water-discharge regulations. And the Twin Falls County sheriff's office has cited the beaver cages for littering.

But as of Friday noon, about 100 of the animals were still at the Twin Falls site. James Grady of Livermore, Calif., the general manager of Rupert Beaver Ranches, said in a telephone interview Friday afternoon the last of the animals were to have been moved Friday to another beaver farm near Rupert.

Grady declined comment on the civil suit, saying

'Hopefully, they just will be going out of business'

he had until May 1 to reply to the legal papers that were served earlier this month.

Russell Renk, an engineer with the health department's division of environment, said Friday that he has heard the firm plans to file bankruptcy and cease all three operations.

But since many of the beavers are owned by individual investors, Renk said he assumed the firm would have to allow some time for owners to retrieve their investments before closing the farms.

The owners contend the beavers are breeding stock worth several hundred dollars apiece, and that investors were building herds to establish a market for domestic beaver fur.

Critics have said the operation is a tax dodge, allowing investors to write off huge sums, while the industry fails to take hold.

The Health and Welfare suit seeks $1,000 a day from each of the three operations until waste-treatment facilities are installed according to an agreement worked out with the firm last August.

Fines, to date, for the three facilities could amount to more than $400,000.

"Hopefully, they will just be going out of business," Renk said. He conceded the fate of the remaining beavers probably will be death, since the state Department of Fish and Game has expressed no interest in obtaining the animals.

The department also has charged Rupert Beaver Farms with failing to register as an Idaho corporation. Named in the complaint are Frank Horn of Rupert and Grady and Robert Palmaymessa of California.

But Grady said Horn is no longer employed by the operation, and he declined to say what response he will make to the suit. Palmaymessa could not be reached for comment.

Contacted last month, Horn said he had not been paid for some time and was attempting to feed the animals with his own funds.

Jim Munn, the Twin Falls County sheriff, said his office found no proof of cruelty to animals, so it issued a citation under the county's refuse ordinance for failure to properly dispose of dead beavers.

Court records indicate Horn pleaded guilty to littering on March 15, and was fined $38 plus $11.50 in court costs.

Hansen splits on levy vote

Override levy wins approval, but facilities fund vote fails

By KATE LOPEZ
Times-News correspondent

HANSEN — School board officials in Hansen were granted almost two-thirds of the money they were seeking in a special election Friday.

The district wanted voter approval for a total of $46,000 in extra funds, $30,000 for the general fund from an override levy and $16,000 to establish a plant facilities fund.

With 160 voters going to the polls, the override levy passed, while the plant facilities levy was defeated by the slimmest of margins.

The difference was that the override levy needed only a simple majority, better than 50 percent, for enactment, while the facilities fund needed a formal majority, 66.6 percent to pass.

According to Superintendent Richard Smith, the override levy was approved by a vote of 106-54. The vote on the facilities fund was identical, but the resulting percentage, 66.25 percent, was just shy of the amount needed for approval.

To pass, the "fund needed either two more 'yes' votes or one less 'no' vote," said Richard Younce, the chairman of the school board.

"Unfortunately," he said, "we can't get the money anywhere else except from our patrons. We're considering running the school plant facilities fund again because it is so badly needed. We have leaks in the roofs we have to get fixed."

A plant facilities fund can be used only for maintenance and repairs on school equipment.

According to Younce, the school board will hold a special meeting this Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Hansen Elementary School to discuss the results of the election.

Simplot's Burley potato processing plant will reopen

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — There is life after death for a Burley potato-processing plant and jobs for about 140 workers laid off three months ago.

Late in January, the J.R. Simplot Co. dehydrated potato-processing plant in Burley was placed in mothballs. At the time, Simplot foods division President James Conrad said the plant would not reopen unless market conditions changed "dramatically," which he did not expect to happen.

Now, plans are being made to open the plant in August.

J.W. Young, the area manager for Simplot in Burley, said, "We'll roughly call back the people we laid off. Fortunately, most of the technical people and my supervisors are still in the area."

Reopening, after the plant had been reportedly closed permanently, was "not a total surprise," Young said. Negotiations to sell production from the plant for the upcoming year had been going on at the time the closure was announced, but there was disagreement over the price to be paid.

"It's been a little longer in getting than we thought," Young said.

Now, he said, General Mills has agreed to buy the dehydrated potatoes produced at the plant. Apparently, the company could not find another potato supplier and so it agreed to Simplot's price, Young said.

The plant will run at about half its capacity. A five-month processing season is planned.

Simplot purchased the Burley potato plant in the mid-1940s. It is the oldest potato plant owned by the company. Simplot also owns a much larger plant in Heyburn for processing frozen potato products.

The Burley plant supplied a major part of its dehydrated potato production to the military.

"We ran an awful lot of contracts for the military right up until 1975," Young said. With the end of the Vietnam war, the government contracts dried up.

County commissioners are conducting their own purchasing probe

JEROME — Two members of the Jerome County Commission met in executive session Friday to discuss alleged purchasing irregularities in the county clerk's office.

Chairman Mel Grindstaff issued the following statement after the session: "We, the Jerome County Commissioners, are conducting our own investigation, which began April 8."

"In a special meeting April 23, held to review all findings to date, it was decided at that time that the information obtained is incomplete. Our investigation is continuing."

Grindstaff said he did not mention the commissioners' probe in a telephone conversation Wednesday with a Times-News reporter because "we were trying to keep some things from getting stirred up."

He had no estimate when the investigation might be completed.

The Times-News reported Thursday that Glenda Belk, the county's purchasing agent, had been paid more than $3,800 during the last 14 months on supplies from a California company implicated in a recent bribery investigation in Blaine County. The story also documented that the same off-the-supplies could have been purchased at local stores for half the amount.

Hagerman acts 'legally' to double its sewer hookup fees

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — Despite angry comments from the audience, Hagerman City Council passed an ordinance doubling the city's sewer hookup fee during a special meeting Friday.

Council had passed a resolution last Friday, April 16, raising the fee from $100 to $200, but it discovered this week that an ordinance — not a resolution — was required to make the increase legal. A special meeting was then scheduled for Friday.

About 25 persons packed into City Council chambers, and a few interrupted council members several times in an attempt to speak on the increase.

The fee only will affect new units hooking into the city's sewerage system. The present water and sewerage rates, now at $17.25 a month, will remain the same, said council member Karen Yarbrough.

Yarbrough said the increase was needed to improve the city's ailing financial status, hurt by inflation and a severe winter. She also said the fee remains lower than that charged by many Idaho cities.

Stinemates gavelled the meeting into adjournment over some shouted objections.

Several persons later denounced council for not taking time to talk to the audience about the issue.

"The people make an effort to talk to the people (on the council), and (the council) people get up and walk off," said Howard Peterson, a resident of the Hagerman area.

Hagerman resident Bill Warren said he was not upset with the amount of the fee. The increase "doesn't bother me at all — just the way they did it."

He said the adjournment "was very rude."

However, Yarbrough said council had called the special meeting for the sole purpose of discussing the ordinance, and it could not conduct any other business at the time.

The controversy over hikes in hookup fees for water and sewerage lines emerged at this Tuesday's council meeting, when Bruce Bothwell, the owner of Bothwell Construction Co., challenged the hookup hikes passed April 16.

Yarbrough said the sewer fee had not been raised since 1977 or 1978, and that she preferred to raise the hookup fees, rather than raise the rates paid by Hagerman residents, many of whom are on fixed incomes.

Bothwell, who is completing construction on a six-house project that would be affected by the hikes, questioned the passage of increases during a special meeting, when a regular meeting, Tuesday, was only three days away.

However, Bothwell said Friday, "the rate is not out of line . . . The bottom line is that they called a special meeting to discuss and put into a motion a major issue with no public input."

Stinemates said the hookup increase does not affect the majority of Hagerman residents, although apparently some residents had received the impression it would. He said he had received numerous phone calls Thursday night and Friday morning from persons who thought sewer rates would be increased.

Any rate increase, Stinemates said, would be discussed at a regular meeting.

At Friday's meeting, during the brief discussion of the ordinance, council was interrupted by Earl Holt of Hagerman, who challenged the ordinance's legality, and by Bothwell, who asked if "there was pretty good attendance at the meeting" in which the original resolution was passed.

In response to Bothwell, the mayor said, "I don't think that's got anything to do with it."

Yarbrough said that as an elected official, "I'm looking out for the welfare of the majority of the people."

A man, who would not give his name, said, "that's well and good" but "I feel the people of Hagerman city are rich to have input."

Peterson asked council for the number of hookup fees charged in the past year, which would indicate the potential revenue from the increase.

Yarbrough said she did not have that information. But she later said the large number of empty city lots available for development, demonstrated the potential for revenue.

Over the objections of Peterson and Holt, the meeting was adjourned.

"When you call a special meeting, you have to define it. No other business can be conducted at that time," Stinemates said later. "We called a meeting to pass ordinance 942, and we did it."

Yarbrough called the action reasonable. "I don't think the city is trying to rip off anybody."

She and Stinemates said a 1981 survey showed that Hagerman's sewer hookup fees resemble those of similar sized Idaho cities. Fees cited were: Genesee, $200; Challis, $350; Plerce, $200; and Donnelly, $300.

Bothwell said he was glad to see the unusually large turnout for a special meeting, which shows Hagerman citizens "want to have a voice in their city government."

Editor's note: This week is National Volunteers Week. Many area social service agencies depend on volunteers to make their programs work. Some of these agencies have been spotlighted on this page throughout the week in articles provided by the agencies.

4-H
Volunteer 4-H leadership can be a challenging and rewarding experience for the 320 adult and 80 teenage leaders in Twin Falls County.

Success as a volunteer 4-H leader does not depend exclusively upon how much you know about a certain subject or how much know-how you have, but rather, what you do with what you have.

It is your ability to get along with people — to tackle a job and see it through — that counts. It is developing, and using teaching techniques that stimulate youth to learn. Leadership is the continuing process of helping others become leaders.

The major concern of the volunteer 4-H leader is the personal growth and development of the 4-Hers as they work through their various projects.

Scouting
Time is precious, yet almost every adult citizen of the United States gives some time to volunteer service. No other country in the world depends so heavily upon volunteer effort, and in no other country have citizens accepted so universally the idea that volunteer service is a requirement of good citizenship.

Scouting thrives because of its volunteers, and it could not exist without them. Scouting's special partnership between volunteers and professionals is the key to its success. The volunteers in the Boy Scouts of America are making a difference in the lives of our youth.

If the federal government financed the Boy Scouts, it would cost 38 times more than it does now by being run by volunteers and funded by private contributions.

On procedural agreement

Gooding teachers reach accord

GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

GOODING — Midnight Thursday, after an evening of heated negotiations that finally ended in a closed session, teachers in the Gooding School District and school board members tentatively agreed on a procedural agreement for contract negotiations.

Under state law, a procedural agreement, which defines negotiable items and who will represent each side in contract bargaining, must be signed before negotiations for salary and benefits can begin.

The procedural agreement, which has yet to be ratified, limits negotiable items to duty-free lunch, a grievance procedure, leaves of absence, sick leave, jury-duty leave, and health, accident, major medical, life and disability insurance benefits.

Regular salary will be negotiable but not extracurricular pay. A plan for extracurricular pay, however, will be worked out informally with the board, according to Bill Sweet, the spokesman for the teachers.

Another area of contention that was settled in the agreement was the procedure for calling an election in which the teachers will decide who will negotiate for them.

The agreement stipulates that anytime 20 percent or more of the district's teachers request it, an election will be held to decide who will represent them at the bargaining table.

The school board also can call for a teacher-representation election within 30 days of being notified of the teachers' intent to negotiate.

Presently, a majority of the teachers in the district have signed representation cards indicating that they want the Gooding Education Association to negotiate for them. About half the district's teachers belong to the GEA.

Teachers will vote on ratification of the agreement Thursday and contract negotiations will begin as soon as they can be arranged.

Commission delays tax-appeal decision

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County commissioners have delayed deciding whether to grant a property-tax exemption to a new low-income housing center.

Earlier this week, representatives of Vista Village sought an exemption for the 61-unit complex, which is designed to house low-income senior citizens. The request was made on the basis of the housing project's non-profit status.

Construction of the facility is expected to be completed by June 1. The commissioners had planned to issue a decision on the request by the end of the week. But on Thursday, commission Chairman John Cover said the decision will not be made until next month in order to give county officials more time to study the proposal.

Cover said the commissioners want to research the matter with Prosecutor Harry DeHaan and Assessor Dorby Hamlin.

According to Commissioner Mel Leonard, county officials are considering implementing a long-term auditing process to determine whether the housing project will continue to remain a non-profit enterprise.

Would provide legal aid

Jim Harris woos senior citizens

KIMBERLY — Legal protection for the elderly is a proposition the Idaho attorney general can promote, candidate Jim Harris said Friday.

Campaigning against Jerome lawyer Jim Jones for the GOP nomination, the Ada County prosecutor made his statement during a Kimberly senior-citizen luncheon. Harris was campaigning in Twin Falls County both Thursday and Friday.

"It is absolutely necessary that elected officials, particularly those holding positions within the criminal-justice system, reconsider the direction of the criminal-justice system as it relates to the goal of protecting law-abiding citizens, particularly the old and weak citizens who are more prone to victimization," he said.

Harris said that as attorney general he would work to initiate a statewide program similar to the one implemented in Ada County to assist senior citizens in understanding the law. That probably would involve periodic meetings with senior-citizen groups to provide legal assistance "through informational means" to elderly people who need direction in criminal and civil areas.

"Through a minimal amount of time, a public law officer can provide an invaluable service to senior citizens by passing on information to them for purposes of problem solving," he said.

Harris cited a recent report, "Fear of Crime in America," that indicates senior citizens are the group most affected by such fear and concern.

"About 43 percent of American citizens over the age of 60 express high levels of fear and anxiety toward crime and ... that fear has changed their way of living."

Harris and Jones will square off in the May 25 primary, with the winner facing Democrat J.D. Williams of Preston in the November general election.

Prison officials seek Twin Falls escapee

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

BOISE — State penitentiary officials were searching Monday for a Twin Falls man who they believed escaped from the prison earlier in the day.

Prison Warden Darrel Gardner said 19-year-old Bartlett Blaine Livingston was reported missing at 4:45 a.m. Livingston was last seen in a prison kitchen, where he worked as a night cook, at 3:25 a.m. Prison officials could not locate Livingston during the 4:30 a.m. prisoner check, he said.

Gardner said there is a possibility that Livingston is hiding somewhere on the prison site, a plot that has been used by some prisoners in the past.

"We do not believe that to be the case in this instance, however, Gardner said, because one of the wire-mesh doors at the back of the kitchen facility had been tampered with.

Authorities are speculating that Livingston might return to the Twin Falls area. But as of Friday, the Twin Falls County sheriff's office and the Twin Falls Police Department reported no indication that Livingston had been in the area.

Gardner said he did not consider Livingston armed and dangerous. But by the nature of his conviction, Livingston could be potentially dangerous, he said.

Livingston is serving a sentence of up to five years for a 1981 robbery conviction in Twin Falls County. His conviction stemmed from the Feb. 5, 1981, robbery of a Peo of a 78-year-old woman in her South Park area home.

Livingston's conviction was part of a plea-bargain agreement. In return for Livingston's testimony against co-defendant David Rossi, 28, prosecutors charged him with only the robbery charge. Rossi subsequently pleaded guilty to aggravated battery, robbery and first-degree burglary, and was sentenced to serve up to 30 years in prison.

Since arriving at the prison, Livingston had had difficulty with several main-yard prisoners and was placed in protective custody, Gardner said.

"Some of that could have caught up with him," the warden said. "The rumor were hearing is someone threatened him again. That may have been some of the reason why he ran away."

Local/National

Nearly gone

Vaccinations have almost wiped out several diseases

ATLANTA (UPI) — A five-year program to immunize the nation's children against seven dangerous diseases has made considerable progress, officials at the national Centers of Disease Control said Thursday.

Dr. Allan Hinman, the director of immunization for the federal health agency, said polio has been virtually wiped out, rubella (German measles) may soon be completely eliminated and red measles is expected to disappear by Oct. 1.

"The immunization levels, in children have never been higher, and diseases have never been lower," Hinman said. "Basically, we've made incredible progress in this country in the past five years."

The $129 million National Immunization Initiative began five years ago. This month, after vaccinations against polio, measles, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough) rubella and mumps were described as "shockingly low levels."

Hinman said the latest statistics show immunization levels of 95 percent to 96 percent among children for all the diseases except mumps, where the level is 92 percent.

Although the immunization program has been criticized because of occasional adverse reactions to the vaccines, Hinman said cases of permanent damage to health were rare.

"We are trying to work toward vaccines that are safe," he said, "(but) we are not likely to achieve perfection."

Hinman said "five of seven preventable diseases were at all-time low levels last year," the exceptions being diphtheria and pertussis.

Provisional totals for these illnesses show there were four diphtheria cases in 1981, compared with three the previous year. Thus far in 1982, there have been no cases of diphtheria reported.

Pertussis cases numbered 1,189 last year, down from 1,730 for 1980, but this was not a record low.

The outlook for polio and rubella was more encouraging.

"We have virtually eliminated polio," Hinman said. "We may be able to eliminate it totally."

There were only six cases of paralytic polio in 1981, compared with eight in 1980. One case of polio has been reported so far this year.

Blood drawing exceeds quotas

Top donors included Lowell Kuykendall who received a 10-gallon pin; David Boring, eight gallons; William Toolson, six; and Julia Gardner, Linda Lee, Alan Bierman and Curtis Kemp, three gallons.

Other donors reaching gallon levels were: Kathleen Huddleston, Kenneth Shew and Darrell Olsen, two gallons; and Craig Butler, Anita Akers, Gary Cristani, Susan Pakham, Katherine Balabanov, Stephen Smith, Gerald Knutsen and Julie Venemon, one gallon.

United Way will take applications

Support for pertussis vaccine continues despite reactions

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A national television show about complications from pertussis (whooping cough) vaccinations, has provoked a statement from the U.S. Public Health Service in support of the vaccine.

NBC's "Today" show aired a report Tuesday on arguments against widespread use of the pertussis vaccine, which is routinely administered to children under 1-year old.

Afterward, the South Central District Health Department received several inquiries about the vaccine. Tom Machala, the district's health educator, said attendance dropped off drastically in the district's outlying immunization clinics.

According to the Public Health Service, brain damage has been reported following administration of the vaccine, "but the frequency and causal relationship are major issues of debate."

The largest study indicates permanent brain damage in only one case out of 310,000 injections, according to the PHS. However, local and mild reactions, such as fever, pain and swelling, occur frequently.

Declining vaccine use in England and Japan was followed by major epidemics and an increase in the numbers of death from.

"We believe that this indicates that continued routine vaccination is necessary to prevent a resurgence of this very contagious disease in the U.S.," the PHS statement said.

The South Central District Health Department provides a vaccine that protects against pertussis, diphtheria and tetanus. It is administered at ages 2, 4 and 6 months.

Machala said that the district's former consulting physician, Dr. R. K. B. indicated that no major problems in recent history had occurred from the vaccine, although fever and swelling were common.

Before the vaccine was available in the 1940s, as many as 265,000 cases and 7,000 deaths caused by pertussis occurred annually in the United States, according to the PHS.

Now, 1,000 to 3,000 cases of pertussis are reported each year, with 5 to 20 resulting deaths.

"Without an immunization program, a 70-fold increase in cases and a four-fold increase in numbers of death is estimated," the PHS statement said.

Complications from pertussis include pneumonia, ear infections, encephalitis, emphysema, convulsions and brain damage.

Both the American Academy of Pediatrics and the World Health Organization recommend use of pertussis vaccine in infants and young children.

Bruins edge Elko

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Trying to gain impetus for next week's showdowns against Minico and Burley, the Twin Falls Bruins nearly gained nothing at all, surviving a seventh-inning Elko rally Friday afternoon to outlast the Indians 7-6.

Ordinarily, this non-league affair would probably have been an unimportant one for the Bruins. But Coach Bill Ingram regarded it differently.

"This was a big game for us," Ingram said. "We needed some momentum going into next week, because we have two tough games back-to-back." Ingram was referring to Tuesday's game with Minico and Wednesday's contest against Burley, both helping to determine which Fourth District team receives the first-round playoff bye.

The Bruins, 15-4, amassed 12 hits and built what appeared to be a comfortable 7-1 lead. But a pair of walks, two errors and some clutch Elko hitting enabled the visitors to bring the winning run to the plate in the final inning.

Right fielder Brock Miller preserved the victory, accounting for the last out by gunning down Miguel Betancourt at third base. Betancourt, who had narrowed the difference to one with a two-run single, was trying to advance on Albert Urtizaga's base hit.

Miller wasn't the only outfielder to save the Bruins a run. Center fielder Todd Wigginton threw out Bill Nelson at the plate in the second inning, making a dribbling but accurate peg to catcher Curt Thiemann.

Big plays took a back seat to mere chance Friday. Without several strokes of luck, the Bruins might have had to fight harder for their victory.

In the first inning, Thiemann tipped a 2-2 pitch into Elko catcher Mark Smith's glove. However, the plate umpire ruled that Smith had trapped the ball. Given new life, Thiemann poked a single to right field, scoring Mike Federico with the Bruins' first run.

Leading off the third inning, Elko's Luis Cornejo lofted a Kravitz pitch for an apparent double. But Cornejo tripped rounding first base and had to settle for a long single.

On an attempted steal of second in the bottom of the inning, Bruin Mike Black inadvertently kicked Smith's throw into short left field. Conveniently for the Bruins, nobody was near that area, so Black got up, chugged around third and scored.

Finally, with one out in the seventh inning and Twin Falls struggling, Elko's Raynard Gonzales hit a slow bouncer to the right of pitcher Victor Valdez, who missed the ball. Shortstop Shawn Humberger picked it up and threw to first, clearly too late to get Gonzales. However, the first-base umpire saw matters differently, calling Gonzales out and easing the Bruins' plight.

On the conventional spot for Twin Falls, Thiemann lashed three hits in four trips, including a two-run, third-inning homer off Elko's Dennis Talofya. Wigginton and Brett Semple each scored twice, and Kravitz limited the Indians to one run.

RBI singles by Miller and Federico in the sixth inning looked like insult to injury at the time, but they ultimately gave Twin Falls its clinching runs.

Senior Kande Crumbliss says enthusiasm and confidence have been major factors in helping the Bruins post a 6-1 dual meet record so far this spring

Senior, frosh pace Bruins' success

Crumbliss, Lambert unblemished on tennis courts

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — One is on the rise while the other's prep career is almost finished, yet Jeff Lambert and Kande Crumbliss share a common bond.

Both Twin Falls High tennis players are undefeated — 8-0 — in a season that is quickly nearing completion.

"It's something you dream about," Crumbliss, a senior, says of her winning streak. "All you can do is go out there and give it your best."

An 8-0 record isn't a dream to Lambert, an outgoing ninth-grader who expected to have a good season. "When I found out that I'd be playing No. 3 (boys singles) coach told me that I wouldn't be facing great competition all the time," the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High student said. "I've faced some good competition like the guys from Bonneville and Wood River, but it's usually not too tough."

The success experienced by Crumbliss and Lambert has helped the Bruins, just in their second season of tennis, put together a 6-1 dual meet record heading into today's Twin Falls Invitational.

Although Crumbliss is about to graduate and Lambert is a rookie on the team, the two have many similarities. Both play in the No. 3 singles position for their respective sexes. Crumbliss sandwiches tennis in and around a part-time job at Buttre's along with DECA and Rodeo Club activities. Such an active life sometimes forces her to miss tennis practice and she may have to work today and miss the day-long tournament. Lambert also misses a share of practice since he gets out of class at O'Leary only in time to arrive at practice about 45 minutes late.

Missing practice isn't usually a drawback, though. Twin Falls Coach Clovis Johnson has worked with Crumbliss after she gets off work and Lambert usually stays after other teammates have left.

A strong serve and volley game highlight Lambert's style

SUSAN POLLARD/Times-News

Powerful serves are Jeff Lambert's trademarks

while Crumbliss relies on consistency and an improved backhand.

"Jeff is a very dynamic player," Johnson appraised. "He's got all the footwork and moves for the game. All he has to do is refine his basic game. Kande has been very consistent and strong all year. She could play the No. 2 spot without much problem."

Crumbliss would rather see Laura Rice play at No. 2. "I miss practice because of work, so I feel the two girls that are here should play in the top two spots," she said.

While Crumbliss is content to play No. 3, Lambert isn't. He'd like to move up to the No. 2 or 1 spots, positions being more than adequately manned by Scott Guthrie and Mitch Greene, respectively.

"It's kind of a fix so I can't move up," Lambert said, half joking. "I can beat Mitch, but Mitch can beat Scott and Scott can beat me."

If the results stay the same when the trio challenges each other, Green will remain the kingpin with Guthrie second and Lambert third.

Johnson doesn't care who is in which spot as long as the winning continues. "I'm real confident with those three playing singles," the Bruins' mentor said. "All of their skills are so close. The only difference is that Scott and Mitch have tourney experience."

The addition of Lambert moved Steve Benkula from the No. 3 singles spot to a doubles role.

"Steve is a better doubles player, anyway, so it makes our whole team stronger," Guthrie said.

Lambert has played tennis for three years and Crumbliss for six. Both were anxious to see a team formed at Twin Falls High and got their wish when the school administration added the program last spring.

"I was pulling for it," Lambert said. Lambert, at 5-11 and 175 pounds, is big for his age. He also lacks the usual freshman shyness.

"I've got the coolness of (Bjorn) Borg," he said when asked if he patterns his game after one of the top professional players. "But my serve and volley play is more like Roscoe Tanner."

Green and Guthrie agree: "He's a little inconsistent and that's how I've beaten him twice," Guthrie said.

Getting beaten isn't something Lambert or Crumbliss or the Bruins have experienced much of this spring.

NCAA: Coach selling tickets was flagrant example

USC grid program put on three-year probation

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — The University of Southern California football program has been placed on three years probation by the NCAA Friday because of the alleged sale of complimentary tickets by an assistant coach.

The penalty, which was imposed by the NCAA Committee on Infractions and upheld after an appeal, includes sanctions that will prohibit the university's football team from participating in postseason football bowl games during that 1982-83 and 1983-84 academic years and from appearing on any NCAA-controlled television program during the 1983 and 1984 regular football seasons.

"The most flagrant example of willful circumvention of NCAA legislation in this case," said Charles Alan Wright, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions, "involved an assistant football coach who, during the period 1971-1979, deliberately violated NCAA rules by selling complimentary tickets of varsity football team members at prices in excess of face value in order to provide large sums of cash to the team members who chose to participate in this arrangement."

As an additional sanction the NCAA also said an assistant football coach will be prohibited from performing any official or unofficial duties on behalf of USC, with the exception of coaching, for a two-year period. The NCAA said the school will not be able to replace the coach with another recruiter during that period.

The NCAA also said 16 individuals who purchased tickets through the illegal arrangements will be prohibited from participating on any activities associated with recruiting during the probationary period.

The NCAA said its inquiries on USC began on 1980 after publication of newspaper articles quoting former football players about the ticket-selling arrangements. During the NCAA's investigation, the Pacific 10 Conference took punitive action against USC in August 1980 as a result of violations concerning arrangements for students-athletes enrolled at the school.

USC officials refused Friday to comment on the NCAA decision and announced they would have a news conference Monday at which time school President James Zumbege will comment.

The NCAA said the assistant football coach sold complimentary tickets for football players to representatives of the university's athletic interests for "prices substantially in excess of the face value."

The association also said the coach sold bowl game tickets through the same arrangement.

Scott picks New Mexico

TWIN FALLS — George Scott, College of Southern Idaho's 6-foot-8 power forward, signed a letter of intent Friday with the University of New Mexico.

Scott, a Region 18 junior college first-team choice the past two years, averaged 16 points and seven rebounds a game last season in helping CSI to 28-4 record and a berth in the NJCAA tournament.

He is the third player signed by UNM, joining 6-foot-7 Tim Garrett of Houston and 5-foot-10 Niles Dockery. Scott and Dockery played basketball together in grade school in Louisville, Ky.

Scott said late last week that his three choices included New Mexico, Southern Illinois and Cal-Fullerton.

76ers oust Hawks, Bullets eliminate Nets

By United Press International

Caldwell Jones sank four free throws in overtime and Julius Erving blocked a key shot with 13 seconds left to play Friday night to give Philadelphia a 98-95 win over Atlanta and a two-game sweep of their first-round NBA playoff series.

The 76ers, who won Wednesday 111-76 in Philadelphia, now move on to face Milwaukee in a seven-game series starting Sunday in Philadelphia. Milwaukee had a first-round bye.

Erving, who scored 13 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter to rally the 76ers, blocked a shot by Atlanta's Dan Roundfield with 13 seconds left and the 76ers on top 55-53.

Jones, who had given the 76ers the 95-93 lead with two free throws with 1:07 left, then sank two more from the foul line for a 97-93 lead with four seconds to play.

Roundfield, who led the Hawks with 29 points, hit a dunk with two seconds to play but Erving's free throw with one second left put the 76ers back on top 98-95.

The game was marred by a wild elbow-swinging duel involving Atlanta center Wayne "Tree" Rollins and 76ers guard Lionel Hollins midway through the second quarter. Rollins appeared to elbow Hollins while the guard was driving to the basket. Hollins retaliated with a blow to Rollins head while the center's back was turned. Rollins then chased Hollins behind the basket until both benches cleared and the players were separated.

NBA playoffs

Atlanta announced it was protesting the game following the incident.

Suns 124, Nuggets 110

At Phoenix, Dennis Johnson scored 29 points and Alvan Adams added 25 as the Suns beat Denver to even the teams' best-of-three Western Conference playoff series at a game apiece.

The deciding game will be played tonight in Denver.

Twelve of Johnson's points came in the first quarter when Phoenix ran to a 40-21 lead. Johnson made six of nine field goals as the Suns shot 65 percent to Denver's 45 percent.

Rockets 91, SuperSonics 70

At Houston, Moses Malone scored 28 points and swept up 23 rebounds to carry Houston win over cold-shooting Seattle that ended their series at a game apiece.

Seattle, whose 70 points was the lowest in NBA playoff history, won the third and deciding game Sunday.

Malone, the league's leading rebounder and second leading scorer, held 7-foot Sonics center Jack Sikma to one basket in the first half as Houston built a 10-point lead despite shooting only 37 percent.

Bullets 103, Nets 82

At Landover, Md., Kevin Grevey scored 16 of his 25 points in the final 10 minutes to lead Washington to victory and a sweep of their NBA mini-series with New Jersey.

Frank Johnson added 18 points and Spencer Haywood 15 for the Bullets. Albert King, who hit his first 10 shots, paced the Nets — who played without point guard Fogs Walker — with 25 points and Ray Williams added 23.

Twin Falls High sprinter Sally Butts hits the string to win the 100-meters in a season-best time of 12.41 seconds

Bruins sweep Hank Powers Hulse, Bartholomew set Jerome High records

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

JEROME — Greg Bartholomew and Gary Hulse set Jerome High records to start a bit of the limelight from Twin Falls Friday afternoon in the first meet on the Tigers' new all-weather oval.

Both the Twin Falls boys and girls overpowered the Tigers, Burley and Wood River to win both sides of the annual Hank Powers Invitational during the best track day of the season so far.

The Bruins boys scored 134 1/2 points in winning 11 of 18 events including all four relays. Jerome — with Bartholomew, Hulse and the usual distance crew leading the way — had 96 points for second while Burley and Wood River were way back.

Bartholomew set a school best of 1:59.55 in winning the 800 meters. He also won the 1600 in 4:33.55 and claimed the high jump at 6-40. Hulse set the discus 164-0 for a Jerome school record and added a win in the shot put with a toss of 53-0.

Twin Falls, gearing for its title defense in next week's Gem State Conference meet, was paced by Doni McMurrian and the relay team.

McMurrian won both hurdle events, taking the 110 highs in 15.2 and adding the 300 intermediates later in 41.65.

The Bruins were only pushed in one relay, the 500 as Jerome ran a 1:32.65 compared to a 1:32.35. Greg Klittrick, Joe Shelby, Mike Rice and Steve Galle formed the winning unit.

It was a nice, low-key meet without any championships on the line, "Twin Falls skipper Jerry Kleinkopf said. "Without championships, you don't usually get great times."

Kleinkopf said enough of the times were fast enough to give an indication that Jerome's surface is going to be a fast one. The runners faced a steady wind most of the day Friday, resulting in some slower times.

The Bruins boss has had his team in heavy training for next week's conference meet and he said that also affected some of the times.

"We're starting to cut back (in distances during practice) on some of the kids now," Kleinkopf said. "We learned some things today that will help us for conference. An example was the medley relay. We had Joe Shelby running a 200 and Virgil Hurt a 400. We found out that we can switch them-and-probably-gain-two-to-three seconds."

On the girls side, Tammy Crow, Dina Libert, Sally Butts and Macie Miller paced the Bruins to a 117-70 record over the Tigers.

Crow doubled in the 800 (2:28.0) and 1600 (5:49.25). Butts hit season bests of 12.41 in winning the 100 and 25.98 in the 200. Libert cracked 60 seconds in the 400 meters for the first time at 59.94 and Miller tripled with wins in both hurdle events and a 173-4 leap in the long jump.

"Sally and Dina both had the best times of the season in their wins and the 800 and medley teams ran well," Kleinkopf said. "It's going to be a fast track."

Jerome was led by Endi Schrader and Vikki Winder. Schrader took the high jump at 5-1 and added seconds in the two hurdle events. Winder was second in the two sprints and ran the anchor leg of Jerome's winning 400 relay.

The Tigers took three of four relays. Wood River high jumper Lisa Bernhagen wasn't at the meet because she and Lori Pascoe were competing in the Bob Gibb Invitational at Boise State.

Jerome will host the South Central Idaho Conference meet Thursday while the Bruins travel to Pocatello in an effort to defend their Gem State Conference titles.

"Pocatello's boys should be pushing for the state title next month and they'll be tough to beat at conference," Kleinkopf said. "I expect us, Minico and Highland to battle for second place. Our girls and Poky should be going at it for first."

Villanova's medley streak halted by Georgetown unit

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — With John Gregorek running a blistering 1600-meter anchor leg of 3:55.1, Georgetown broke Villanova's 16-year winning streak in the distance medley relay Friday at the 88th annual Penn Relays.

The Hoyas, the 1982 NCAA indoor champions in the event, rode Gregorek's performance to a winning time of 9:26.16. Villanova, which hadn't lost the distance medley since 1965, got stuck 9:26.57, followed by Arkansas and Richmond.

Gregorek, a member of the 1980 U.S. Olympic team and an NCAA champion, took the baton in fourth place, 30 yards behind pacing Villanova, but quickly moved up to second behind Wildcat anchor Ross Donoghue.

Gregorek, whose time corresponds to a 3:56.5 mile, closed the gap and won a relay of stride behind Donoghue going into the final lap with Richmond's Sosthenes Bitok and Arkansas' Randy Stephens moving up to challenge.

Stephens almost caught the leaders on the final turn at Grant, but showed he had a final kick, passing Donoghue with 40 yards to go and winning by two yards.

Messner, Nebeker lead Devils; KHS girls win

Snead, January take 1-shot lead in Legends event

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Sam Snead, a month short of his 70th birthday, teamed with Don January to fire an eight-under-par 62 Friday and grab a one-shot advantage after one round of the rain-shortened $450,000 Legends of Golf.

A 35-foot putt at the par-3 sixth hole by Snead ignited the twosome to six birdies in a nine-hole stretch and gave them their narrow lead over defending champions Gene Littler and Bob Rosburg.

Littler and Rosburg shot a 30 on the back nine of the par-70 Onion Creek Club course for a 63. Julius Boros, recovering from December heart surgery, and Miller Barber were alone in third place at 65.

Tied for fourth at four-under-66 were the teams of Gardner Dickinson-Dan Sikes, Tommy Bolt-Art Wall and Harvey Ward-Bill Collins, who are playing in their first Legends tournament.

The tournament was shortened to 54 holes because of daylong rains that wiped out Thursday's scheduled opening round.

Snead teamed with Dickinson to win the inaugural Legends tournament in 1978, but is teaming with January for the third straight year. That twosome led the 1980 tournament going into the final round but wound up losing to Bolt and Wall. Snead and January were never a factor in 1981 while Rosburg and Littler captured the crown.

But on Friday they turned in a scorching round — one that began by Snead's birdie putt on the sixth hole.

Postlewait sets record

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Kathy Postlewait, saying "I wasn't bothered by the windy conditions, fired a first-round record six-under-par 66 Friday to take a tournament lead going into today's second round of the $150,000 Orlando Lady Classic tournament.

Postlewait, who finished third in the Bent Tree Classic earlier this season but has never won a tournament in her nine years on the women's tour, shot a 35 on the front nine and a 31 on the back.

Her score of six-under is a first round low for the tournament, played over the 6,106-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course. It also tied the first round LPGA low for the year.

Janel Coles, Dot Germain, Sandra Haynie, Patty Sheehan and Donna White, the winners of the 1980 tournament, were bunched at two-under-par 70, four shots off the pace. Five strokes behind the leader were Jan Stephenson, Sally Little, Nancy Lopez-Melton, Kyle O'Brien and Kelly Pulk.

Ten golfers were tied at 72 and 11 players shot a first-round 73. Defending champion Beth Daniel, off to her best start in three years on the tour with two wins, fired a three-over-75.

Postlewait had three birdies on the front nine and then blistered the back with five more. Four of her birdies came on 15-foot putts and one was a 36-footer.

Gusty winds and light intermittent drizzle kept the score high for most of the golfers, but didn't faze Postlewait. "The wind just doesn't bother me. I'm fairly good playing in wind," she said. "The new way I looked out the window today that it was going to be windy, so I concentrated well."

"That putt Sam made at the sixth sort of released everything," said January, 52, whose lone major championship victory came in the 1967 PGA championship. "After that it was just a process of how many putts we could make."

Snead's birdie put the team at two-under and from there they birdied three holes in a row. After the turn, January birdied the 11th, 12th and 14th.

"But one man can't do it," said January. "I think we showed that today. We made about the same number of putts and played pretty good. We will just try to do it the next two days."

"I'm just out there as a crutch," said Snead, who is credited with 84 Tour victories over a professional career that began in 1936. "When you respect each other and like each other you have a chance to play good together."

Littler and Rosburg, however, were very much in the running for the $100,000 top prize and their second straight Legends title.

"The conditions were a little tough," said Rosburg. "But the main thing is that we got off to a good start. If we get more rain and they have to shorten the tournament, you don't want to have to come from 100 feet behind. I thought that three 64's might win it. I don't know if it will, but 18 under should be awful good."

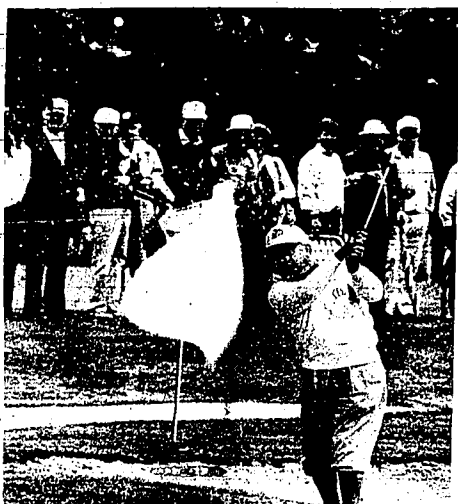

Boros, 62, underwent bypass heart surgery last December but he birdied the last two holes Friday to help account for his team's 65.

"Believe it or not, the most problem I have when it's windy is my putting," she said. "But my brother was caddy for me today and he helped me read the greens."

Postlewait, whose best finishes on the LPGA tour have been three ties for second place, said she would like to find the secret to winning.

"I'm very consistent and I have had some pretty good finishes," said Postlewait, who won nearly $48,000 last year. "But I don't know why I haven't won. I'd like to find that out soon."

Germain, who had two birdies on the front nine and two on the back, saved three pars on the side by chipping the ball into the cup.

Shearer paces New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Australian Bob Shearer rode the tide of a PGA victory at Tallahassee to the first round lead of the rain-delayed $400,000 USF&G Golf Classic Friday, firing a six-under-par 66 at the soggy Lakewood Country Club.

Tied at second place one stroke behind was Scott Hoch of Raleigh, N.C., who shot 67 on the par-72, 7,080 yard course, and Jim Colbert, who eagled the 12th hole from 113 yards. Colbert overcame a bogey on the front nine where he had two birdies and picked up the eagle and two more birdies after the turn.

Grouped in third place, two strokes behind the leader, were George Archer, Ron Commans, Larry Ziegler and Jim Simons.

Jack Nicklaus, looking for his first PGA win in 20 months, and Tom Watson, who has won in New Orleans the last two years, both came in at one-under-par 71 after each drew two bogeys on the front nine.

"I played about as solid as I could today," said Shearer. "I think I missed two greens, but not by very far."

Shearer, starting on the back nine, birdied the 18th hole with a 20-foot putt to begin his charge for the lead. He followed up with back-to-back birdies at two and three, another at six and another pair at eight and nine for five-under-par 31 on his last nine holes.

"Obviously I was going out there with a lot of confidence," Shearer said, referring to his win at Tallahassee last week. "But sometimes that goes the other way ... I just started hitting the ball well."

"The greens were fantastic," Hoch said. "The rain always helps the greens the day after."

Connors gains semis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors continued his steady play in a $70,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament Friday by easily defeating Steve Denton, 6-2, 6-0, to advance to today's semifinals.

Connors' semifinal opponent will be fifth-seeded Sandy Mayer, who overpowered Brian Gottfried 7-5, 6-0. Gene Mayer will meet unseeded Mark Edmondson of Australia in the other scheduled semifinal match.

Gene Mayer beat No. 4 seed Johan Kriek of South Africa, 6-3, 6-4, while Edmondson topped Mexico's Raul Ramirez, 6-3, 2-0, when Ramirez was forced out of action with a recurring injury.

Connors, who won this tournament last year, played steadily and had an exceptionally strong return of service. Denton, however, was erratic and had numerous unforced errors, including many shots that went into the net.

Connors finished—the match—by winning the last nine games and breaking Denton four times. In three matches at Caesars Palace this week, Connors has lost a total of nine games.

Sandy Mayer finished with a flurry to win the right to face Connors in the tournament's semifinals. Mayer won the last eight games against Gottfried, who began hitting shots wide after Mayer broke him in the fifth game of the first set to take the lead for the first time, 3-2.
